

Today's Fire Danger

Each year, Arizona experiences thousands of uncharacteristically severe wildfires that often devastate our forests, wildlife habitat, communities, human health and water supplies. High severity wildfires and post-fire impacts, like flooding, are one of the greatest threats facing our State. Do your part, don't let a wildfire start! Please help us prevent wildfires by paying attention to current fire danger levels, fire restrictions and forest closures.

Visit our “Forest Restoration Demonstration Site” located in the Park (see map). View the kiosk explaining the forest ecology and fire history of the area. You can also experience a forest that has been restored through removal of small trees to create a more open forest and compare it to a dense unhealthy forest stand that has not been restored.
